more had been killed or wounded or had left the country on parole. He added that he believed the number of Boers now in the field was about 10,000.

"The country has set its teeth and intends to go through the process of wearing them down," he exclaimed. "We intend to provide Lord Kitchener with fresh troops to replace the tired ones. Only today a certain colony made an offer to help."

Mr. Broderick said he was sorry any-thing had happened to affect the career of Sir Redvers Buller and he assured the company that deafness of Sir Eve-lyn Wood was not a bar to the work at officer had to do as commander of the army corps.

Mr. Broderick explained that four battalions and two cavalry regiments would be drawn from India for service in South Africa.

The war secretary declared also that neither Sir Evelyn Wood nor the Duke of Connaught was to be regarded as a peace general, because wherever their army corps went they also would go. He further announced that Sir Archibold Hunter would be appointed to the command of another army corps when this was formed.

New York, Nov. 14.—An interview with an Austrian merchant who has just retuned from South Afica is reported by the Vienna correspondent of the London Times and the New York Times. The merchant believes the war will last another six months, but does not think the Boers will hold out beyond next June. He believes they would be glad to make peace if they obtained substantial autonomy. He says the British should not allow the burghers to retain the gold mine region, which should be permanently unter British rule. This statement, which startled the men's executive committee of the mestic missions of the Reformed church at its eighteenth anniversary in this city, was made by Miss Elizabeth B. Verziffye, a member of the committee, in an address upon Mormonism in the East. She said further:

BRECKINRIDGE ON LABOR PROBLEM

A Good Thing.

CRITICISED STEEL STRIKE.

Labor Should Fight Its Battles With Reason and Not With

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 13 There is nuch excitement among the delegates to the convention of the state Federation of Labor, now in session here, over the address of welcome by W. C. P. Breckinridge, who stated that he favored a combination of labor, and also a combination of capital, but that he did not believe a national federation of labor would be possible without complicating interests of various sec-

Col. Breckinridge said he was the friend of labor organizations, that he heartily favored the organization of jabor, but that he thought its battles should be fought with reason and not with force; that the day of strikes was over, citing and criticising the big steel strike. He said further that he did not believe it conducive to the best interests of labor, but unjust and an abrogation of personal liberty, for unions to say to the employer, "You must employ only whom we choose, pay them what we demand," and say to the working-"Urless you join our union you cannot work.

This expression of opinion was not pleasing to a number of the delegates and several wanted to make speeches when Col. Breckinridge had concluded but to avoid a scene the chairman declared the meeting adjourned.

When the convention reconvened the situation was so strained that several delegates attempted to expel the members of the arrangements committee who had invited Breckinridge. They would not proceed with business, a mo-tion to proceed being voted down-39 to 7. There were motions to adjourn to Covington or Louisville, and then a committee of five was appointed to report whether the convention should port whether the convention should leave Lexington.

At the session this evening the committee reported in favor of adjourning to another city, but a motion to that effect was defeated. A turbulent session followed, during which the federation adopted resolutions denouncing Breekinridge for his expressed sentiments and expelling from the convention C. Fleming, vice-president of the local typographical union, who arranged the program and presided at the opening session. opening session.

J. J. O'Brien, the Lexington delegate

then walked out of the committee and the meeting of the Blue Grass Typo-graphical union, the entertaining or-ganization, was called for tonight. At the meeting of the typographical union from the Kentucky Federation of La-bor, and the action of Delegate O'Brien in leaving the convention was indorsed. The printers in the resolutions adopted further declare:

That the brand of unionism exhibited by the Federatioin of Labor in its action today is not that to which Lex-ington unions are accustomed, nor the kind they attempt to propagate, and finally, since the federation has seen fit to criticise the entertainment and welne accorded the delegate are bidden a courteous farewell. The resolutions also stated that while the sentiments of Col. Breckinridge are not indorsed by the typo-graphical union, he was at least en-titled to a respectful hearing and to the privilege of free speech.

MAY FINISH TONIGHT. Work of Canvassing Board Now Draws ing to Close.

The Council canvassing board put in two hours yesterday afternoon verifying the ballots of the recent election. The Third precinct was completed without any change in the published figures. If a quorum can be gotten together this evening the work ought to be finished off tonight. Councilman Hewlett sent up a barrel of crab apple cider yesterday to help to relieve the dryness of the work.

The result in the Third precinct was officially declared as follows:

For Councilmen—E. H. Davis, 1,482; majority, 67; Fernstrom, 1,444; majority 29; Arnold, 1,440; majority, 25. For Mayor—Thompson, 1,368; Leary, 1,497; Stewart 76. For Recorder—Nystrom, 1,240; Sloan, Auditor-Reiser, 1,367; Swan, Treasurer-Whitiemore, 1,186; For Attorney-Nye, 1,541; Stephens,

For Judges-Diehl, 1,226; Tanner, 1,422; Sommer, 1,296; Thomas, 1,543; Gunter, 69; Lewis, 93. The work yesterday began with the twenty-eighth district. There were no discrepancies, and the challenge of Maria Y. Dougall's vote for non-residence was overruled.

In the twenty-ninth the discrepancy was four votes. D. P. Felt received two votes for the Council. The thirtieth failed to return the poll book and register with the tally sheet. The judges had enclosed the missing books with the ballots. City Attorney Ste-phens was consulted by 'phone, and he gave it as his opinion that the sealed package containing the ballots and register could not be opened. The count seemed to be regular, however, and after the tally sheet had been verified the district vote was allowed to pass. In the thirty-first J. D. Haltber's vote was challenged because of his rem from the precinct. A discrepancy of three votes between poll book and register was found. In the thirty-second the challenge of Eddie E. Rich as a non-resident was overruled. The thirty-third was all straight, and so were the thirty-fourth, thirty-fifth and thirty-sixth.

JEFFRIES AND RUHLIN.

Something About the Two Heavy Weights Who Come Together in Championship Battle Tomorrow.

We are again on the eve of a championship battle, says Otto Flato in the Denver Post. It is less than ten years ago since the mighty John L. Sullivar went under before the left-hand jabs of the young Californian, James J. Corbett. It is less than five years ago since Robert Fitzsimmons demonstrated by the solar plexus route that he was entitled to the champion's crown It is less than three years ago when the name of James J. Jeffries became world famous through his win over the great Australian fighter. It gained more luster when it successfully defended the title against Sailor Tom Sharkey. The coming contest in San's Francisco next Friday night will make the third time that Jeffries has been called upon to defend the title. Will he put Ruhlin in the puglistic scrap or will he himself rest among the cast-offs? It is good betting that Jeffries will still be the champion when it is all over. Of course, there is just such a thing as Ruhlin winning. But it is also barely possible that One-Eyed Connelly will be governor of Illinois some day. There are always possibilities, especially in the prize ring.

If Ruhlin was of that type of fighter we might term a knocker-out the dan-ger of the "chance punch" might be a great item to take into consideration. But Gus is anything but a sleep pro-ducer. His entire records shows from top to bottom that he never knocked out a good man in his life unless it be Sharkey, and he wore the sailor out more than he knocked him out. On the other hand, that record shows where both Sharkey and Fitzsimmons forced him to take the count. So that the danger of Jeffries being knocked out by the Arkonite is only the very remotest of possibilities. Yet such things are possible, and who knows but that there s a good turn in the wheel of fortune or Gustavus.

Jeffries, since he began fighting in July, 1896, has not a single defeat re-corded against him. True, when he went to New York and attempted to stop two men in twenty rounds and failed on the first one (Bob Armstrong) it is, or ought to be, charged as a defeat, simply because under the terms of the match he certainly lost. It is a hard matter at best, however, to say that a man lost and yet he was not

But a fighter who makes so foolish a match ought to have it charged against him when he fails to accomplish what he undertakes. Bets were paid according to the referee's decision in that event and the referee decided that Jeffries failed to knock Armstrong

Outside of this little technical loss his record is a clean one. The greatest feat and the one that gave him genuine prominence was when he lowered the colors of that doughty warrier, red-topped Robert Fitzsimmons. He showed his real worth in that undertaking and fore or since. Wonderful as was his defeat of Fitzsimmons, he showed the mettle he was made of when he fought Tom Sharkey. In the Fitzsimmons match, after it was all over and calmly reflected over the same, we cam to the conclusion that after all he did not deserve so much credit for whip ping the Australian. And when we learned that he weighed almost seven-ty-five pounds more than Fitz we were astonished and marveled at the wonder-ful showing of the latter. Jeffries, however, deserved credit for making the match and showing the country that he was all his friends had claimed for

In the match with Sharkey the champion was a sick man. He was only partially trained for the bruising contest Billy Delaney and Tommy Ryan was responsible for this. Add to this the fact that thousands of lights above his head were throwing out a heat so fierce that some of the spectators were overleave the building. Yet with all these adverse conditions he managed to pult through. Those who were aware of his condition and then realized what he had done were simply astonished at the man's endurance.

Jeffries was first called to our atten-Jeffries was first called to our attention when he was brought from Los Angeles at the suggestion of Billy Woods to help train Jim Corbett for his fight with Bob Fitzsimmons at Carson City. At that time he was a big. strong fellow and Corbett used to punch him around at will. All the stories, however, around at will. All the stories, not that came from the Corbett camp that came from the Corbett camp about the ex-champion knocking Jefabout t fries down were fakes. Billy Woods has time and again declared there was no truth to them. After the de-feat of Corbett, Woods took Jeffries to California, and from that time on he rapidly went to the front. His first opponent was a giant named Van Buskirk, and it took Jeff just two rounds to put that ambitious slugger to rest. Then came Henry Baker, of Chicago, who went to the mat for his sleeping powders in the ninth round. Third on the list was Gus Ruhlin, the same man he is to face next Friday night. night. Ruhlin made a plucky battle and was rewarded by the referee with a "draw" the first one in the cham-pion's record. Joe Choynski then tack-led the big fighter, and as Joe was a good fellow and Jeffries lead over him was none too big, the referee also de-clared that fight a draw. Joe Goddard, who came to this country and followed Corbett around seeking a match cried 'quits" in the fourth round of Jeffries' ext contest.

Peter Jackson about this time got the notion in his head that he was still a cormidable man in the ring and tackled Jeffries. In the first round of that con-test Jackson showed up well. But age and fast living soon told on the one-time peerless fighter, and in the third time peerless fighter, and in the thru-round the spectators present, remem-bering the many notable battles the black man had fought, pleaded to the referee to stop the contest, as they did not care to see old Peter knocked out. Colorado furnished the next opponent for Jeffries in the person of the cele-brated "Mexican Pete" (don't smile.) In the third round of the contest Peter stuck his head through the ropes and icoked at the audience, and as Jeffrie did not care to hit a man with his back did not care to hit a man with his back turned towards him, the referee asked Peter to 'Go way back and sit down.' The amusing part of this fight was when Pete left the ring. Harry Corbett was standing on the outside of the ropes when the Mexican turned towards him and said: "What's the matter? Did I foul him?" Of course Harry Corbett nearly feil over with surprise. "Foul him?" cried Corbett. "No, Peter, you did not foul him. How do you expect to foul a man when you don't make an effort to strike a blow."

Next the seat of war changes to the Next the seat of war changes to the East and we find him battling for the world's championship and winning the world's championship and winning the same in eleven rounds from Bob Fitz-simmons. After a short trip to Europe the fight with Sharkey took place. Referee Siler awarded the decision to Jeffries at the end of the twenty-fifth round. There was much grumbling and dissatisfaction over the same by the Sharkey adherents. O'Rourke and others claiming that the sailor should have had a draw at the very worst. But when the fact is taken into consideration that Sharkey was laid up for a week after the fight from the thumping he received while there was thumping he received while there was not even a scratch on the champion, it looks as if Siler knew what he was doing when he made the decision.

After defeating Jack Finnegan in one round in Detroit he tackled Jim Corbett. The latter made a great fight for twenty-three rounds, when a right hand joit put him to sleep. Since then the champion, outside of meeting a few local men in four-round contests in the different cities he visited, has met no different cities he visited, has met no formidable opponent. He was matched to meet Ruhlin in Cincinnati last winter but the authorities prevented the Ruhlin started his fighting career in the same year that Jeffries did. He de-feated his first opponent, who was a fel-low named Jim Woods, at Akron, Ohlo, He then won from two men named Tob-in and Kane, Yank Kenny defeated him in sixteen rounds at Baltimore. Billy Madden at this time was managing Steve O'Donnell and was with him on steve O'Donnell and was with him on his way to San Francisco. The pair stopped over at Akron and Madden thought O'Donnell would pick up a lit-tle easy money meeting Ruhlin. To the surprise of everybody present Ruhlin won with something to spare. Madden saw his opportunity right there and Dropping O'Donnell and making terms with Ruhlin, he continued his journey to the coast with the Akron glant and shipped Steve back to New York, Ruhlin appeared on the coast and secured a draw with Jeffries. He then defeated "Tut" Ryan, Bill Smith and Wolf Bendorff, knocking the latter out. He then lost to Kid McCoy in a twentyround bout at Syracuse, and was knocked out by Tom Sharkey in one round at Coney Island.

Ruhlin scored the second knock-out of his career against Tom McCormick in Philadelphia in two rounds. He then defeated Joe Goddard, Joe Choynski and Goddard again. His next battle was with Peter Maher, which resulted was with Peter Maher, which resulted in a draw, Again Madden and Ruhlin crossed the continent and he met defeat at the hands of Joe Kennedy in twenty rounds. The latter was recently knocked out by Jeffries in two rounds. From 'Frisco to this city, where he defeated George Lawler and Jack Stelzner. He then met a lot of second-raters, whom he defeated, winding up his winning streak by knocking out Tom Sharkey for the first time in the sailor's career. Two weeks after that Fitzsimmons put Ruhlin to sleep in six rounds. It is now up to Jeffries.

Madden must fear Jeffries somewhat in the clinches. Evidently he remembers how the champion sent that right hand joit to Sharkey's ribs and how it told on the sailor in the closing rounds.

told on the sailor in the closing rounds. He does not care to have Ruhlin take that punch if it can be avoided. The hit-with-one-arm-free rule seems to please the public best, and for that matter it is as fair for one fighter as it is for the other. They were the rules un-der which the puglists fought in New York, in Chicago and in this city.
